

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of processing nested message layers which allows for encoding all the message layers into one formatted message buffer without incurring a copy at each message layer. A generalized approach for representing the context of each message layer and linking them to facilitate 5 the encoding and decoding of message layers.